YORKSHIRE WAS ALL RIGHT.

In a market town smoke-rooms some farmers were having their evening glasses when there was a Yorkshireman, known to be a terribly keen hand at driving a bargain.

As the evening wore on he got a bit “warped,” and one of the company took advantage of this to make an exchange of news with him, which was, however, only effected after a lot of haggling—“the horses were taken over exactly as they are,
with all faults.”

As soon as the deal had been ratified by shaking hands and each man standing drinking his glass, the company joined heartily in the laugh against the “tike”
when the other man said.

“Sam, I’ve done you this time. My horse is a dead ‘un—died this morning!”

“Oh, no, you haven’t,” replied the Yorkshireman, with a knowing look. “I know all about that. My horse died this afternoon, and what’s more, I’ve taken off his shoes!”—London Advertiser.

The Artist's Reception.

A now very eminent artist used in his earlier days to dress in so Bohemian a fashion that it might almost be called disreputable. His first big chance in life came when he was invited to go to his country mansion to paint a view of the house. When he arrived at the house, the door was opened to him by the butler.

“I am Mr. ——,” said the artist. “I have come down to paint the house.”

The master received him with a shabby clothes and涅ered. “This is funny,” he said at length. “His lordship sent I said anything to me about having the house done up.”—Strand Magazine.

Gates Left.

“Shall we play for a little money, Miss Smart? We are all here now, so let us sat down to a game of chess—our stars for love?”

“Oh, I think it’s wrong to play for money, even if the amount is trifling.”

“Then we will play for love?”

“Yes.”

“And if I win, Miss Smart?” he said, still more seriously.

“Then rascals get anything, of course.”

Cut, please.—Picke Me Up.

Favorite Names.

An English paper which has been taking a ballot on the subject of favorite names for boys and girls received 4,000 responses. A list of 31 boys and 26 girls names was submitted, and the voting showed Harold and Dorothy to be the two most popular appellations.

LAXA-LIVER PILLS

... CURE ...
TORPID LIVER,
CONSTIPATION,
SICK HEADACHE,
AND DYSPEPSIA.

As a laxative, one pill acts perfectly,
and if a stronger action is desired a cathartic effect is produced by two pills. In obstinate cases, where a pur-gative is necessary, three pills will be found sufficient. These pills leave no unpleasant after effect.

One pill taken each night during thirty days will cure constipation.

SELECTION OF BREED.

The Plymouth Rock is Among the Best For All Purposes.

If it is decided to keep but one breed of fowls, the Plymouth Rock is the better in an exchange, the old reliable Plymouth Rock will fill the bill with more satisfaction than any other breed. Good layers, good mothers and good table birds, they combine all the money making qualities. They are hardy, naturally healthy, easily kept, good foragers and equally good layers, and are well suited to any range. Besides they are the universally popular breed. They are better known, more generally kept and more advertised than any other breed. This makes them an additional source of profit, as it is never a great effort to sell them.

The demand for them has never diminished since their introduction to the American market. On the contrary, they have made a strong and progressive march into public favor, and today they are more sought for than any other variety.
As utility fowls they are placed at the top of the list, and as show birds they are usually the most important breed in the exhibition hall.

Now, if the beginner has settled on the Plymouth Rock, it becomes necessary that he proceed at once to study the care of the bird. A plump hen like all other breeds, should have comfortable quarters. It is poor economy to house any fowls in slimy, shedlike structures, which are neither wind nor weather proof. Warm, substantial henhouses mean a saving in feed and an increase in eggs.

But artificially heated houses lead to pampered stock, which will destroy, in a great degree, their natural hardiness and vigor. Every precaution should be taken to construct houses as warm as possible, but not so hot as to become a hazard to the birds. The front should face the south or southeast, thus to catch the warm sun in winter. Windows sufficiently large to admit plenty of light, but not too large, are very important.

The second consideration should be feed. If the Plymouth Rock is a heavy bird, somewhat slower in their movements than the sprightly Leghorns, for example, they can be very easily over-fed. To guard against this tendency they should be kept on comparatively hungry, in order to induce them to scratch and hunt—in other words, to exercise.

They should be kept perfectly dry and free from dampness; therefore a ground of good which constitutes natural drainage is the best. The front should face the south or southeast, thus to catch the warm sun in winter. Windows sufficiently large to admit plenty
of light, but not too large, are very important.

If the breeding stock is cared for thus with a view of maintaining strong healthy, vigorous specimens, the eggs will be found to hatch well and the chicks will live when hatched and thrive accordingly. As like birds, like we cannot expect strong chicks from weak and debilitated stock.

Whether one uses the natural or artificial method of hatching matters not, provided he understands the system he adopts. There is quite as much for the beginner to learn of the one as of the other. The idea that he will do it all is not a wise one. Hens must be properly fed and properly prepared for a good batch is desired. The Plymouth Rock is excellent mothers, but they can become as unsatisfactory as any other breed if not thoroughly understood.

The young stock should have, however, in either case, plenty of range to induce growth and development. The old stock do much better generally and produces more eggs if kept varded the year round, but the youngsters should have perfect freedom until they reach maturity. As Plymouth Rock chicks are rather slow growers it is best to keep them in the middle or last of March, and if kept too broody then the machines should be called into use.
Early hatching will give us layers easily by Nov. 1, even if the care has not been perfect.

Early eggs in November command a high market price, and it will thus pay well to make your pullets producers at once. A free use of raw meat three times a week will be found a great help in inducing early maturity. This, however, must not be used until the stock is two-thirds grown and after the bugs, mosquitoes and gnats have become scarce.
Good food is hard to find on the range as it usually is in September, it should be supplied, as it is very necessary being the natural food of all poultry.

The keeping and raising of poultry, if success is desired, are not what may be considered easy. It requires first a love for the pursuit and then a natural inclination to study and learn by personal experience which may be attained.

Imprudence and carelessness is a great sin, and the best teacher. What one breeds does no criterion of what another can do. Still, the advice of a successful breeder is a great help to the beginner if he will follow it. The Plymouth Rock is a very hardy breed and will stand abuse and neglect probably better than any other variety, and there is no breed that will turn in a better return for good care and proper handling.

Poultry Points.

A little draft in the henhouse often causes roup.

A little attention to a droopy fowl will save it.

A little dirt and filth allowed to accumulate breeds cholera.

A little attention to the whole flock will keep them in condition.

A little manure in the henhouse, added to a little of the day before, induces lice.

Woman's Work

It is never done, and it is especially wearing and wearisome to those whose blood is impure and unfit properly to take sustenance, or repair the wasting of muscle and tissue. It is also because of this condition of the blood that women are run down,

Tired, Weak, Nervous,

Than because of the work itself. Every physician says so, and that this "body in body" is building up by taking a good rest, a proper diet, proper air and vitalizer like Hood's Sarsaparilla. A RUSSIAN FIRED ON BY A BRITISH MAN-OF-WAR IN CHINESE WATERS.

Germany Ordered by China to Evacuate Kiao-Chou.—The British Admiral starts for Hong-Kong—Commercial Relations Between Russia and Korea.

London, Jan. 3.—Very-Admiral Sir Edward Holart Seymour, K.C.B., British Commander-in-Chief on the China station, superseding Admiral Buller, has started for Hong Kong accompanied by his staff.

According to a special despatch from Shanghai, he arrived at Taku about the arrival of Li Li Yen toward Germany, resulting in a demand for the evacuation of Kiao-Chou, and leading to the belief that Great Britain is bringing to bear upon the Chinese Government the same pressure which it brought upon the Emperor Nicholas, granted an audience to the Chinese Minister Plenipotentiary Yang Yu, who handed the Czar a personal letter from the Emperor of China. It is reported here that the evacuation of Kiao-Chou is the principal condition of the proposed Chinese loan. The St. Petersburg Herald announces that some Russian vessels have left Port Arthur and gone into the harbor at Taku with China's consent, the harbor at Port Arthur being too small for the free movement of the Russian vessels.

LONG SEARCH FOR THE FORTUNE

The Tale of a Young Girl Buried in the Woods of Maine and Her Body Covered With Gold and Gems—How Jerry Harper Got One of the Diamonds.

Everybody who has worked in the Maine logging camps has heard the story of Jacques Dupont and the great box of glittering diamonds which he hid away in his daughter's grave somewhere along the headwaters of the Aroostook river. Though few people of the present generation take much stock in the legend, it is at least true that the hand has been around within 20 years. It was taken to a Boston jeweler, who offered $500 for the gem, but Jerry Harper, the man who found it, suspected the stone was worth more and sold it until he had taken a few more glasses of liquor, and then left it in a Trenton street room as security for drinks. When he came back later to recover his property, the bartender had gone and taken the diamond with him.

According to all accounts—and they agree remarkably well—Jacques Dupont was a garrulous man, who had come to the United States to sell diamonds and other precious stones to the French army officers of the garrison. He sold a large number of diamonds, taking his pay in gold and being asked to do so by his daughter Linda, came across, bringing more gems and a beautiful face, which latter set all the officers half wild with admiration.

After the fall of the fort, he took to the woods through the wilderness, and sought to reach the Acadian settlements at Grand Falls and dispose of the balance of his stock. Though the goods were full of powder and gunpowder, at the time they were all friendly to the French, so the party traveled the whole way under an escort of admiring savages.

All went well until they reached Edmundston, where a party of Indians took him and his diamonds and struck south through the wilderness, hoping to reach the Acadian settlements at Grand Falls and dispose of the balance of his stock. Though the goods were full of powder and gunpowder, at the time they were all friendly to the French, so the party traveled the whole way under an escort of admiring savages.

At last it grew past what the eye can see. Climbing a steep bank of hope to heaven's air.

Above the refuse of mortality,

Nor fears to know what form it yet shall wear.

EVOLUTION.

The dull scuffle resounds in a groan of silence.

Then to a muted sound the leaden said, "Oho, Deaf pony in that chrysalis flesh till time O'er the sloped forehead make love's white-flower'd flow."

So to the beast went down the unclothed soul,

Abode in twilight, wallowed in the mire,

Writhed in the serpent, burrowed with the mole.

Till the dim suns waked it to aspire.

Then up through tortuous shape it rudely grew.

Saw the long night expand into the day.

Found its own self and round it slowly drew.

A human vestment from the sulken day.

And still it grows past what the eye can see.

Climbing a steep bank of hope to heaven's air.

Above the refuse of mortality,

Nor fears to know what form it yet shall wear.

FOR TEN CENTS

Have you ever tried to estimate the satisfaction a pleasant book will give you? That you get when you spend a cent for a package of Diamond Dyes? The advantages and profits are strikingly wonderful. Faded and dingy looking dressed blouses, capes, knitted shawls, hose, lace curtains, and pieces of drapery, old and stained, are given original value and usefulness. The truth is, they are made as good as new and the cost only ten cents.

This work is done every day by thousands of women using Diamond Dyes. Beware of imitations that come down to the sake of big profits.

Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal, P. Q., for valuable book of directions and sample color card sent post free to any address.

A COSTLY CHICKEN.

The most expensive chicken on record is probably that one the famous Lady Anne Clifford extorted from one of her tenants. By old custom, the rents of her lordships of Skipton and Appleby paid a tribute of 800 bushels in addition to the usual rent. When the king's commissioners refused his assessed contribution of one hen, Lady Anne "lawned" him at York assizes. She got the hen, but it cost her £200 and the defendant probably a good deal more.

In the soda water business in this country there is $50,000,000 invested. It was John Manners of New York who originated in 1832 the idea of charging water with mineral acids. The name of that great benefactor of mankind is probably a woman—who first suggested the idea of dropping some ice cream into a glass of soda water has not been preserved for his story.

WHAT EVERYBODY KNOWS.

We ought to know, is that health and even life itself depends upon the condition of the blood. Feeding, as it does, all the organs of the body, it naturally follows that the blood gives proper nourishment. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure, rich and nourishing, and in this way strengthens the nerves, creates an appetite, tones the stomach and builds up the health. Hood's Sarsaparilla wards off colds, pneumonia and fevers, which are prevalent at this time.

As one of the results of the Deseronto poultry fair, a poultry export company has been formed in Kingston to ship poultry to England.

WHEN A STAMP IS NOT GOOD.

IT WILL NOT ANSWER IN PLACE OF COIN IN SLOT MACHINES.

"That druggist at the corner is the reddest, most impulsive person I ever saw," observed young Mrs. Hawkins at breakfast.

"Hush!" replied her husband, with a rising inflection, as he turned a page of his paper.

"Harold Hawkins, I just believe you haven't heard a word I've been saying. Such a man I never saw. Why you're actually reading an old editorial with as much interest as if it was an advertisement."

"Certainly, my dear, I heard everything you said. You said—what was it that you said?"

"I said that the druggist at the corner is the reddest, most impulsive person I ever knew. He—look here, Harold, is or is not a cent postage stamp worth a penny?"

Mr. Hawkins laid down his paper and looked full at his wife. "Angelia Hawkins," he said. "I hope you know what you are thinking about, for I sure that I do not."

"Well, I'm sure I made it plain enough even for you to understand; is a cent stamp worth a penny, or?"

"It is certainly worth a penny, my dear. I doubt if you could get it for less, even though I paid it."

"Thank you. That is what I've been trying to get at. You know the weighing machine at the corner drug store, do you not?"

Hawkins groaned: "The place goes to go weighed every time anybody sees you are looking well, for fear you have gained an ounce?" Yes, Anna, I do."

"Well, I went there yesterday, and when I opened my pocketbook I found a stamp that I had not noticed and carry five pennies home, so I was coming to see a cent stamp tucked down in the corner."

"Well?" said Mr. Hawkins, with one eye on his paper.

"A bright idea struck me, and I put that in the slot. It was worth a penny, anyhow, you see, and I seldom use a cent stamp."

"Well," gasped Mrs. Hawkins, "that druggist about it, thinking, of course, he would give me my stamp back, he only laughed, and—why, Harold Hawkins, what on earth is the matter? Are you crazy?"—Chicago Times-Herald.

A CIRCUS MAN'S STORY.

The Circumstances Attending the Loss of a Large Anaconda.

"We lost a large anaconda," said the old circus man, "in the most singular manner you ever heard of. You couldn't guess how if you should guess for 10 years. The first time we had it was when we had the great 14 foot giraffe, and as far as you about, and by a very singular coincidence this anaconda was just the same length—just as long as the giraffe. We got it out of its cage one day, however, and it crawled over to where the giraffe was lying. The tent was up, and the ring tent cracked its whip neck and cracking its whip with the mouth of 15 feet of anaconda, which the giraffe slashed around in the air and sat up against the canvas roof and started to roll around on the ground, jumping around itself. In fact, it was in the show house a some time, but I'd never seen anything like that.

"The people didn't know what to make of it, so I got the lead of the show part of the show, though they acted as though they thought it was a pretty scary part, but in about five seconds they realized what it was, and then they thought the show house was safe again. They wanted to go, and they did go, dropping down from the backs of the seats and getting out any way they could, and leaving the big giraffe there wrestling with the anaconda and pushing and pulling and slapping it down and knocking even effect off it, but without any effect."

"Then's where the old man came in; as he always does in any real emergency. He was working in the ring, mopping up the giraffe's blood and snow all over him, keeping as close to him as he could, and looking for a chance. Presently the giraffe, slashing the great snake around in the air in all directions, doubled it around the center pole. It just happened so, but the anaconda's tail struck around, he seized it, and 14 other men talled on less than that number of seconds. A canaryman came out with an ax, and Chopper, the clown, came out with a broadsword, and the old man cut the tail off the big serpent when he went around the center pole was enough. And that's the way we lost the big anaconda, but as compared with giraffes anacondas were cheap, and we were glad to get out of it as well as we did."—New York Sun.

BAE TURK.

I never in my life saw a man with such a magnificent physique. He was very handsome, splendidly proportioned and of astounding physical strength. A few days before I met him he had been in the Nish who was still talking. It seemed that Abdul Kerim Pasha, the commander in chief, while inspecting the troops one morning, casually expressed a wish that he could capture a Saracen prisoner from the English. Abdul Kerim Bey, who was then the rear-marshal, rode out and was asked to be permitted to get the commander a prisoner. Abdul Kerim Bey willingly gave the required permission, and Ahmed Bey, without another word, wheeling his steaming, dashed the impudent impudent in front of this astonished detachment, straight for the nearest Saracen outpost. As he approached the lines half a dozen rifles cracked, for the Sarven vedettes opened fire on him, hoping to drop him on the wing. But the Sarven vedettes were too slow, and too late, started to run. Ahmed Bey swooped down upon him like a sparrow hawk upon a lark, and, landing, dropped the spear he bore in his collar, and iron arm and flung him without an effort across the saddle in front of him. Then he galloped back again, bending over his horse's neck as the bullets whistled over his head, and delivered his bewildered prisoner to the Turkish commander amid the delighted shouts of the whole detachment—"Under the Red Crescent."

A CRUSHING ANSWER.

A favorite story in a certain New South Wales gold mining district tells how a political meeting in the town of Gulgong was much interrupted by boisterous and rough chaff, and his chairman was soon in a state of boiling indignation. Smothering his wrath, however he pacified the "boys" by assuring them that at the end of the candidate's speech he would have an opportunity to question them closely. Accordingly at the end of the harangue he arose and inquired in stentorian tones and in a rich Irish brogue, "Has any gintilman got a question?" In the Welsh manner, who had been a conspicuous disturber of the peace of the evening, shuffled slowly up the steps of the platform, but at the top he was met by the chairman, who, without the slightest pause, delivered a terrible left and right, and sent the Welshman sprawling on his back. "Now," roared the chairman, "has any other gintilman a question to ask?" And there was no response.—London News.

The Letter B.

The letter B is in Hebrew designated Beh, and when written on paper tent. There were two forms of this letter, one having the right hand part rounded, the other in the shape of two triangles, one above the other. The Hebrews have had the letter B ever since the time of Moses, and as the east has changed little for 4,000 years it is fair to presume that the Phenicians were familiar with both forms. It was also customary for each family to have a letter B on their door, the letter being erected side by side, the one for the men, the other for the women. Now turn the letter B on its flat side, and it will bear a resemblance to two tents, the resemblance to us perhaps faint, but much more striking in the original form of the Hebrew letter.

Fire.

About 10:30 last Friday night W. W. Carter's shoe store was observed to be ablaze. A alarm was sent in and the brigade after a stubborn fight succeeded in staying the progress of the flames. Fortunately there was no damage done to any property and the smoke was very dense. The building was damaged considerably and the stock greatly injured by water, smoke and fire. The loss may be put at $2,000. The goods and fixtures on the building, W. W. Carter's stock was also damaged by water and smoke loss covered by insurance. Mr. Carter has been in town this week and will proceed at once to extend and repair the building putting in plate glass points, etc. In the meantime he has removed his stock to Stoddart's old store in the Oliver block.

Nervous

People often wonder why their nerves are so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight, but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequent headaches, indigestion and nervous dyspepsia.

The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon its course instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and stupefy the nerves, paralyse, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.

An ordinary cough or cold may not be the same all the time, but neglect may mean in the end a consumption's grave. Dr. Clark's system of Linseed and Turpentine will not cure Consumption when the lungs are riddled with cavities; but it will stop the progress of consumption in the early stages, and even in its last stages gives such relief as to be a perfect Godsend to those whose lives are nearing a close.

A COLD FRAUD.

The Iceman Worked It Skillfully or a Time, but Was Caught at Last.

A new bride and her recently emancipated mother, each luckily born w/ a sense of humor, met the other day at the studio of an eminent portrait painter. The young woman tried to see which of the bigger story of her experiences he deaf and dumb halibut who has eaten the back of his head, the faithless butler and "the lady who wants washing" d' each furnished a share of an irresistible quarter of an hour.

"I'm afraid you're supposed," said the lady as she rose to go, "that an honorific was the noblest work of God; have come to the conclusion that there something in the very air of an atmosphere which is demoralizing to everyone which makes, bakes, brews & in any way sets the teeth chattering. Lots of them may years of housekeeping had prepared me for but I found out a brand new scheme the other day."

"Ever since we went to the Marie Antoinette to have our picture taken, how it was that we used so much ice in our small place as we used to in our large refrigerator. I saw the ice put in each morning and the next morning the place that knew it knew it no more. I studied it over and over again in my mind, and I found no gay desolate one. One day I happened to sit down when talking to the cook, and I saw that the ice chest lid seemed tilted up. I looked in. There was a nugget of ice floating in the water which was over the top of the lid, but nothing else could be seen. I investigated the front edge of the lid. I investigated in each hinge of that lid there was a match. I took them out. The lid went down snug. The more I thought of it the more I realized that this was a coincidence. Then I thought twice or three times. When the lesson came that morning I watched out and had the satisfaction of seeing him look surprised when the lid was down with a bang under his hand. The next morning I found him there was ice enough, which was good, in the kitchen air being shut out. The next morning I staid away until he was gone, telling Rose to give him the kitchen to him. The door was tilted up the same old way, but no matches. I took my glasses on and lighted the gas, and there, if you please, in each hinge was a little wad of chewing gum."

"What a cold fraud!" said the Bohemian sister, and threat every woman in the land with the punishment of having to look into the vitals of her own household. And not a pot of them all could call the kettle black. It is a brand new scheme, but it works.—New York Sun.

FALLEN FLOWERS

One of the workers of the world, living toiled, and the rest of us went on. But was not changed a whit or turned. A strong arm struck the blow. And only a few.

One of the heroes of the world, poor soul, could not fall to fail. But we must have lost like a tree. And now of his form the leaf fell. His cause was lost, his banner furled, And only a wretched woe.

One of the singers among an o'erwrought heart. But we must have lost like a tree. And now of his form the leaf fell. They are human and the rest of us all. This is the song of Shanghaou in Atheneum.

HIGH STEPPERS.

Fashionable Teams Exhibited at the New York Horse Show.

The best horse market is the cities. The stock that brings the highest prices is of the type shown in the illustrations. They represent some of the most admired animals at the New York show.

In cities it is to be remembered that what the wealthy go out for an airing the country people are not the riding horses are after altogether. They partly wish to show off their fine clothes and their fine turnouts. With a man the object of his pride is his horse and perhaps the fine and stylish clothing of the ladies of his family. They reflect his own pride.

GRANDMOTHER'S COUNSEL.

Grandmother says in her quaint old way: "World won't made in a day—day, And that blue sky where the white clouds fill, What the Lord was sayin' paintin' it."

"It's a day sunny, don't you fret! Cheep up, honey!"

You'll get there yet!"

Grandmother says in her quaint old way: "World won't made in a day—day, The meadow there, where you live to sit, Why the Lord was sayin' paintin' it!"

You'll get there yet!"

"HOODCO'S" PROVED LUCKY.

An Actor Who Tested the "Signs" and Made Money.

William Faversham is credited with the following story by the Boston Herald: "Oh! I know what signs are good, and the Romans in many cases were bad luck to the Greeks, in even that did not alter the state of feeling which I wish to describe. No man is so truly void of logical reasoning as to think that seeing the new moon over one shoulder, the other or standing in the rear of a foot ladder or than that of, its neighbor, or going under a ladder or a thousand other signs and parents' really can affect a man's life, even for a hour or a day, but this is perfectly true that a sign, changing our very being affects one's spirit and makes one light headed or the reverse for that time being, and thereby we are more or less impressed."

"I recall a case where it all signs failed as dry weather. It was a friend of mine in St. Petersburg, a broker, who had run the gauntlet of bad luck almost. We will suppose it to be a Monday night when he went home, having lost close on $5,000 to a turn in the market. He went up stairs as straight as could be, but in going down he sprained his ankle and stumbled. Now to stumble up stairs is good luck. Down stairs is bad luck. He muttered something not quite fit for polite ears, with an exclamation against the luck. That evening he'd seen the new moon over his shoulder and he had not a coin in his pocket."

"By Jove," he said, "I'll try it tomorrow and see what will happen."

"By 'it' he meant signs or omens. Well, on rising he got out of bed the wrong foot, and then put his foot cracking and one shoe before he put on the other, when he got out on the street he went under every ladder he could find, and so on. That at about noon he went and borrowed money."

"Now, they do say that it is the worst luck in the world to speculate on entirely borrowed money. You must have a few dollars of your own in the pite you invest."

"Well, what was the result? He made $27,000 in one day, that day which he started with so many back stories of bad luck and endaring of proverbial tradition."

"Of course he has bragged about that thing ever since, telling at any one who didn't know, bad luck, good luck signs. And you there is one thing he will not do—he here Mr. Faversham had a quiet talk himself while his listeners waited—he will never pick up a chair he has overturned."

The raconteur paused here and relit his cigar. Of course some one asked why the breaker of all traditions would not pick up an overturned chair, and Mr. Faversham chuckled as he answered: "Because it is bad luck to overturn a chair, and the only way to prevent that is to turn it out the evil eye, so to speak, is to have some one put the chair upon its proper footing. So, you see, even my friend is not pachymatous to superstition."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
ALWAYS CURE

AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING

Two Box Cure

MILWRAVE, 23RD JULY, 1895.

Gentlemen.—For the last ten years I had been troubled with Kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie bed at night nor stoop to the ground.

I had tried all sorts of remedies, some cured without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.

I am most happy to say it for my sake as well as for others that I am perfectly cured after using four boxes.

A Lumberman's Life.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF FARMERS' INSTITUTES IN ONTARIO.

If any proof were needed of the great improvement which has taken place in every department of agriculture in Ontario, during the last few years, it would be found in a comparison of the Report of the Superintendent of Farmers' Institutes of that Province, just issued, with a Report of Agriculture in Ontario in 1870. The Report of the Institute is a most excellent one, covering all departments of farming, and, is, without doubt, the best and most practical publication ever printed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The ground covered by the Farmers' Institute system is now pretty generally known, and is probably as common a meeting-ground for all classes of agriculturists, and, in order to suit all the different branches of farming, the meetings are made of a varied character. To the President of the Ontario Agricultural College, it is due the honor of having organized and conducted the Institute. They are the direct outcome of the work carried on at Guelph, being an attempt to give the agricultural community the benefit of the results of the work done there.

The growing importance of the Institute system soon made it apparent that, successfully as it had been conducted from the date of its organization, the best results were necessary to it, and that it required an energetic man who could devote all his time to it. This was done in 1894 and the Minister of Agriculture selected as the first President of the Institute, F. W. Hodson, who showed special capabilities for the work required, thus fully justifying the Minister's selection.

The attendance at the local Institute meetings during 1897 was 607, and was more than double that of 1896. The number of Institutes in Ontario, 1897 meetings were held, and 2,808 persons attended the sessions. Last session 659 meetings were held, and 125,177 persons attended, while 3,277 addresses were given, and 2,637 persons were delivered, and 15,452 persons paid their entrance fees. During the previous season, a meeting was held in each of the 101 towns in Ontario, 102,461 persons attended the meetings, 2,637 addresses were delivered, and the membership was 12,384. The increase all over Ontario in 1898 over the year previous is very pronounced. The average attendance per meeting has been about 400, while at some it has run as high as 1,200. To South Waterloo belongs the credit of having the largest membership, the total number of members being 3,000, and the number of students 2,000. North Hastings with 300 members. An interesting feature in the present report is that it contains the first annual report of the Women's Farmers' Institute formed in Ontario. It is in connection with the South Westwaterloo Institute, and is to be the forerunner of several others.

A most gratifying fact in connection with the excellent work done by the Institutes is that it is carried out at such a trifling government expense. The results are, therefore, all the more remarkable. The cost of operation is so small that the expenses are far less than might be expected, and are confined to the payment of rent, and the cost of the services of the secretaries of the local Institutes.

The papers in the Report to hand are most conveniently arranged under the several departments of the farm with which they are concerned, and each page prevents me from giving a full account of the various subjects. Lt.-Col. McCrae, Guelph, treats of the important question of "Cattle Forage Crops"; Prof. I. P. TURNING GRAY
AND THREATENED WITH BALDNESS
The Danger is Averted by Using
AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

"Nearly four years ago, after weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation, and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good natural color."—W. H. W., 20, recommended by Ayer's distributor to his friends.—Mrs. H. M. Haight, Avoca, N.Y.

The protection of the National League has been secured, and each club made cash deposit as a guarantee of good faith. David McArron of Port Huron was elected president of the League and Calvin Davis of Hamilton secretary-treasurer.

The Smuggler and the Peer.
The only instance I have ever heard of smuggling by any one on a big scale was the case of a traveler who had brought from Cuba a large quantity of cigars for his own smoking. He was husted up to a certain point, for, on being asked by the customs officer what he had anything to declare, he pointed to the package of smoking. "That's full of cigars," "Oh, I dare say," said the official, laughing, and writing his cabalistic merohiplynes in chalk he let him go free. I regret to say that the travel's honesty was not proof against such a temptation to evade the proper duties.—Nineteenth Century.

A Large Offer.
Dove on his knees fell and begged that his world accept his hand. When she looked up at him and saw the size of his, no wonder that she exclaimed, "Really this is more than I expected!"—Boston Transcript.

The total investment was the few dollars paid for the first mixed hens. All the rest is accrued earnings of the hens paid by the hens. The buildings to house them, the fences built to inclose the yards, the hundreds of young fruit trees in the yards, together with all the cows, tools and machinery for carrying on a 60 acre farm, have been paid for by those hens. There's a dollar or two in the bank. Compare that condition with the one of 15 years ago, when the weekly wages barely paid the family expenses.

Mr. Wyckoff says his "farm" don't pay any profit. He keeps six or eight cows and makes butter for market—but says there's no money in it. Indirectly, he pays, because the manure from the farm enriches the fields for poultry food. Then comes the pleasure one gets from well tilled fields. It warms the heart to see the crops grow. We walked back over the farm, and Mr. Wyckoff told us of the hard days' work he had put in there, ditching and draining, and showed us one splendid field of eight or ten acres which he had made himself, reclaiming it from a rough, stampy pasture.

Mr. Wyckoff with his 600 head of laying stock. As he has had a large business in cockerels and breeding stock, he usually has a thousand head or even more at the beginning of winter, but 600 is his capacity. These he houses in families of about 50, the pens being 10 by 20 feet in size, each having a yard 2 rods wide by 8 rods long. The houses are built of two pens by 12 wide and divided into two pens by a solid board partition, having a door to pass through. Mr. Wyckoff, unlike many New York poultry men, does not have stores in his houses. He has some-

WHAT A MAN CAN DO.

THE ROAD FROM MECHANIC SLAVERY TO POULTRY INDEPENDENCE.

In This Case It Was Through Industry,
Sound Sense and a Few Hens, but No Money.—A Successful Poultry Man and Farmer.

Mr. C. H. Wyckoff of Groton, N.Y., grew up on a farm, but being desirous of becoming a machinist he served an apprenticeship at that trade and worked at it for several years. Gradually coming to realize the limitations of a machinist's life, the freedom and "out of doors" of farm life strongly attracted him, but every dollar of the family expenses was consumed by the family expenses, and the amount exactly similar to that of thousands upon thousands of mechanics, clerks, etc., who long to get back to the freedom of farm life, but find themselves confronted with the fact of weekly wages barely meeting the weekly expenses and no surplus at the end of the year.

About 15 years ago Mr. Wyckoff found an old man living near his home, a retired farmer, 120 years old, who was willing to sell his farm for about $1,000 down, accepting as security for the first payment a note for $1,000 with the endorsement of Mr. W.'s father. His father was able to loan him a few dollars, with which to partially stock the farm, a few tools and get one step ahead.

Mr. Wyckoff intended to develop that old run down into a poultry farm, having kept "a few hens" at his former home and being a firm believer in the profits to be derived from raising fowl for market. He bought about 25 scrub hens and housed them in one of the old buildings on the place, gradually added to his stock as the eggs produced by the mixed hens warranted it and had the second year respectable flocks of Plymouth Rocks and Brown Leghorns. From eggs produced by these flocks he saved up $75 and the next spring invested it in White Leghorns, eggs, and a year later had grown to a stock of 180 good White Leghorns.

Mr. Wyckoff got his "living" out of the old run down farm and garden and paid aside every dollar of the extra money to pay for more hens or for the eggs from which to hatch them. Therein is the secret of his rapid climb to success. If he had insisted upon using small slices of this egg money in buying family supplies or better clothing or farm

THE GERMAN POLICE.

Professor Muller Tells a Story of His Experience with Them.

A story which thrills right along the German police line is told by Professor Muller in an article in Cosmopolitan. The professor had received through Humboldt, the scientist, an invitation to call upon King Edward VII. of England. Of course he intended to go, but he came very near failing to keep his engagement. It came out of an unexpected visit from a young girl, who had come to Berlin, whom he meant to return to England and what had kept him in Berlin so long.

"After I had explained to him," says Professor Muller, "that I was calling Sanskrit manuscripts at the royal library he became more porespective, and informed me that the police authorities thought a foreigner must be a spy. I told him that I had been to England, but he wanted to know if I had been to America. I told him that I had been to America so that they requested me to leave Berlin in 24 hours. I explained that I wanted but another week to finish my monthly account and prepare my passage to America. I told him that I would leave in 24 hours. I then told him that I must leave in 24 hours and said my thoughts and said very quietly to the young lieutenant:

"The reason of the reason of the reason that I shall of course leave Berlin at once, but that I must request them to inform his majesty the king that I shall not be able to dine with him tonight at Potshausen."

The young man thought I was laughing at him, but when he saw I was in earnest he looked thunderstruck, bowed and went away. It was not long, however, before another police official appeared, an elderly gentleman of very great tact, who said, "Please do not be sorry for what he said. He was the young Lieutenant should have made so foolish a mistake. He begged me to forget what had happened, as it would seriously injure the young man's career. I promised to forget, or at all events not to refer to the royal presence to what had happened."

Professor Muller attributes the visit of the police authorities to the fact that one of the flocks of White Leghorns had almost every day, was a young Sanskrit scholar who had been mixed up with political intrigues and had long been under strict surveillance.

SHOWING OFF A GUEST.

The Guest Who Was Determined Ex-Secretary Fessenden Should Appear.

One night while ex-Secretary Fessenden was on a political mission (to the northern part of Maine he stopped at a small hotel.

In the center of the house was a big stove that warmed two rooms. In one of the rooms a man was sitting and had lashed himself and prepared to take proper comfort during the evening. Just as he had got well seated with his book, the landlord, a 6 foot French Canadian came in.

"Excuse me, sir," said he, "that Mr. Ed. Wiggin of Mayville, she is in the older room, as she wan' to see Mr. Fessenden."

"Tell Mr. Wiggin I'll be in a little later," said Judge Fessenden, turning another look at his host.

The landlord went out. He returned in a moment. "Mr. Wiggin she send his compliments, an she say she wan' to see Mr. Fessenden right away."

The interruption just at that moment rather nettled the judge, who was in no way prepared for such a question, and with such a sharp reply that it was easily seen that the landlord was cut by his asperity. In just 30 seconds the landlord was back. Judge Fessenden raised his eyes to find the man staring at him with a look of desperate resolve. With suppressed exclamation in his tones the tall landlord spoke:

"Mr. Wiggin say she wan' to see Mr. Fessenden quick, an she gues' o' de house, an I say she gon' to see him."

For the big landlord scowled down on the tall Canadian, seized him, tucked him under his arm and strode across into the room of the "territory" gentleman from Mayville.

"Mr. Wiggin," saidly said the landlord, as master of fact, "I thought he had just arrived in a place." "We watered him," said his host.

The landlord went out. He returned in a moment. "Mr. Wiggin she send his compliments, an she say she wan' to see Mr. Fessenden right away."

With suppressed exclamation in his tones the tall landlord spoke:

"Mr. Wiggin say she wan' to see Mr. Fessenden quick, an she gues' o' de house, an I say she gues' to see him."

For the big landlord scowled down on the tall Canadian, seized him, tucked him under his arm and strode across into the room of the "territory" gentleman from Mayville.

"Mr. Wiggin," saidly said the landlord, as master of fact, "I thought he had just arrived in a place." "We watered him," said his host.

The landlord went out. He returned in a moment. "Mr. Wiggin she send his compliments, an she say she wan' to see Mr. Fessenden right away."

The interruption just at that moment rather nettled the judge, who was in no way prepared for such a question, and with such a sharp reply that it was easily seen that the landlord was cut by his asperity. In just 30 seconds the landlord was back. Judge Fessenden raised his eyes to find the man staring at him with a look of desperate resolve. COLOR MARKINGS.

Ohio Method of Identifying Blooded Hogs That Change Hairs.

The Ohio Poland-China Record company has adopted a method of identifying hogs beyond doubt by their color markings. In animals that have been bred pure for generations the different spots, stripes and splashes of color can be easily traced and described, as a white foot, white hairs on rump or spot on shoulder, etc. A chart containing such color description addition to its pedigree given along with a hog when it is sold and accompanying it through every change of ownership will afford a means of testing its identity positively. Such charts the record company uses in connection with established earmarks.

Mr. L. N. Bonham describes in The Breeder's Gazette the card as follows: The secretary has prepared forms of pedigree on the back of which appear blank outlines of the right and left sides of a pig. These blank outlines are also on the stub of the pedigree kept by the breeder. He gives instructions for the breeder to "take this blank and while looking at the pig before shipping it, draw on the blank outlines for me to mark on these outlines with pencil all the points and spots as they appear on right side and then on the left. Before sending the pedigree mark with ink, solid black, all these spots and points as they appear on the pig." It is believed that such a description will be more exactly

Young Shorthorn Cow.

For a perfect model of the female Shorthorn we have seen nothing superior to the young cow in the illustration. Her color is as straight as an arrow; her coat a fine red, splashed here and there with white. Any one at a glance would know she was not suited to the dairy. She does not have to be. Her mission is to produce beef, and nobly she fulfills it. She is one of the famous American Shorthorn families.

YOUNG SHORTHORN COW.

A breeder made the experiment of feeding some milk cows and some fattening steers the same ration as to materials. It consisted of bran, cornmeal and oilcake. He wished to find out which cost the most to produce—a pound of butter or a pound of beef. He noted each pound of gain made by the steers, likewise each pound of butter the cows produced. The result was that the cost for the beef, 3.4 cents; for the butter, 3.6 cents. This cost a trifle more with the above feed and price a pound of beef than a pound of butter, which is worth at least four times as much. Still, if everybody went to making butter instead of beef the price of the butter would soon be lower than that of beef.

The price of $60,000 recently paid for the 2-year-old racing colt Hamburg, in Kentucky, does not look as though the trade in thoroughbreds was dead.

The Artillery Camp.

The Montreal Gazette states that in the field artillery competition at Deseronto with six 12-pr. B. L. guns, each British detachment will furnish four officers, six N. C. officers and six gunners. Four officers from Canada and six N. C. officers from men from England at least will take part in the competitions. The Canadian officers are making a united effort to have this number largely increased and are working for a special reward for the visitors. The visitors will spend two days at Quebec, one day at Montreal, and then take train for Deseronto. This competition will attract a tide of visitors to Deseronto during the camp

Life in Germany.

Rev. R. J. Craig, M. A., formerly pastor of the Church of the Redemeer, has kindly consented, under the auspices of the ladies' aid society of the same church, to deliver a lecture on "Life in Germany" in Union hall, Deseronto, at 8 o'clock on the evening of Friday, Feb. 1st. Mr. Craig's long residence in Germany will enable him to deal with his topic in a most interesting manner. In addition to the lecture there will be a musical programme, and our readers will be glad to learn that Mrs. Craig will give some piano solos, thus ensuring a great musical treat. There will, no doubt, be a large attendance. All invited Silver collection.

Big Yields of Milk.

Some two years ago the Rathburn Company gave Mr. Keatos instructions that all cows not giving 6,000 lbs. of milk per year or testing 3 per cent. of butter fat must be fattened and sold. One year ago the standard was raised to 4,000 lbs. and the testing was discontinued. It is the intention to try and make the average 8,000 lbs. per milking period. The following are a few records: Grade Holstein 014 gave 9,210 lbs. from Dec. 3 to Aug. 21; grade Holstein 12—October 27 to October 12—2211 lbs.; grade Holstein 4 gave 8,300 lbs. from Oct. 18 to Oct. 9; grade Holstein 390 from Oct. 18 to Oct. 9, gave 9,461 lbs.; grade Ayrshire 138, from Nov. 21 to Aug. 21 gave 10,147 lbs.; grade Holstein 157 from Jan. 13 to Nov. 22 gave 8,884 lbs. Holstein 157, from April 1 to Sept. 10, gave 9,000 lbs. Holstein 157, from April 1 to Sept. 10, gave 9,000 lbs. Holstein 3, 3 yrs. old, from Dec. 24 to Nov. 27 gave 7,101 lbs. If our readers will keep the copies of the TRIBUNE commencing Jan. 21, they will find a record of some very valuable animals and when ordering calves it would, no doubt, be a help in selecting foundation stock for other herds.

HOCKEY.

The Citrus Hand rink was the scene of an interesting hockey match Wednesday night. The D. H. S. and Tigers, of Napanee, met for the second time this year and this time victory perched on the H. S. banner by a score of 3 to 2.

Amateurism characterized the play in both games on the eve of the H. S. Excels in this respect. The score at half time was 1-1.

The team lined up as follows:

D. H. S.	Goal.....	TIGERS
W. Stewart.....	McCoy.....
N. Reilly.....	Point.....	W. P. Miller.....
W. Cole.....	Cover Point.....	A. Briger.....
B. Rorke.....		J. Russell.....
A. Carter.....	Forwards.....	Z. Jamieson.....
W. McMaster.....		A. Cornell.....
J. Hyne.....		T. Lefferty.....
Umpires—Mr. Thompson; Jackson, of Deseronto.		Officer—F. Wagar.

POOKERS.

Laferty is easily the Royal Bengal of the Tigers. Cornell was Tom's right hand man and was a good one.

At Cover Point Cole and Parker are rivals who odds in Bally's favor; but at the referring game Parker could give Wager great odds.

The attendance was good; but a much larger crowd will meet next time to cheer on the Tigers.

Mr. Master scored first goal for Deseronto, but Laferty quickly made it up.

Both teams played hard and fast then; but Capt. Jack Hynes who was always to the front, picked the puck from a scrummage and put it neatly between the posts.

The crowd didn't shout, they yelled. Why should they?

Look out for Laferty! There he goes! Off side!

ATER REMARKS.

Briggs tries hard & is Parker. Those lights should be higher for Nasmith's high lifts.

Mr. Master worked hard. Stewart is a cool one.

After all it is combination play that wins. May equal fortune perch on the banner of the seniors.

Chairman Wright of the H. S. B. with Principal Smalls and his staff were interested spectators.

The members of the Ontario Forestry Commission visited Deseronto this week and were much impressed with the industrial establishments they also visited the cement works at Napanee Mills.

Rev. D. O. McArthur conducted a Tyendinaga Sabbath School Association.

CONVENTION AT MELROSE.

The Second Annual convention of the township of Tyendinaga Sabbath School association will be held in the East Methodist church, Plainfield, on Thursday, Feb. 1st. There will be an evening and a morning session. The programme has been arranged. The people of Plainfield will welcome all Sabbath school workers and visitors. Telegrams on arrival will report to Wm. Moore, chairman of the publishing committee.

Rev. G. H. Copeland was the next address which was of a very suggestive nature. He spoke on the attention given to the large assembly. Among many other points he emphasized the fact that the cultivation of the religious nature was a chief work of the Sunday school. CLARA MORRIS' SERMON.

Words of the Actress Who Brought Relief to Her Royal Coachman.
Clara Morris, the well known actress, makes her appearance as an author in "The Stage," having presented a graceful tribute to an old and blind saint, "John Hickie, Coachman." In her maiden effort as a story-teller she records the only sermon she has ever preached. It was delivered to relieve her faithful retainer's suffering—brought about through poverty and infirmity by his church (the Catholic church)—in response to his will. "It's hard, madam; it's hard that a man should be made to lose his soul."

"Never say that again, John," I cried;

was my reply. "It's hard that a man is just one poor created who can lose your soul for you, and that man is John Hickie."

"He looked at me a moment, then putting one forefinger on my arm he asked solemnly, "Madam Clara, are you talking as a Catholic or as a Protestant now?"

"I replied, "To show that I can hurt the poor, I have said one before me and bled the tears in my own eyes. But I made answer quickly: 'I'm speaking neither as Catholic nor Protestant, but simply as a woman who like to lose it. Don't look so sad, John. You are a good, kind, great and powerful, but there is one who is greater, more beautiful and more powerful.'

In all the ages there has been but one who left the unspeakable joy of home to travel alone, who left to be tortured, as it bears testimony to the general prosperity of the farming classes, who are increasing their acreage.

U. S. COASTING LAWS

NEW REGULATIONS FOR THE YUKON TRADE.

Canada Has Given Them Free Admission for Goods for the Relief Expedition, But Their Reciprocity Amounts to Simply Making the Canadian Pay.

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—The coasting laws are the latest complication in the very difficult Yukon question. The law of the United States forbids goods to be sent from one American port to another to be transferred at a Canadian port unless in an American vessel. Goods shipped for Skagway, Dyea or Wrangell via Whitehorse must be brought within the U.S. The Canadian coasting laws do not contain any such provision, but the customs law permits of an interpretation that would, for instance, prevent goods being shipped from Vancouver to Skagway via Wrangell except in British bottoms. An American vessel arriving at Wrangell and transhipping to a Stikine River boat could be held for duty at Telegraph Creek and treated as an importation. A coasting vessel could not be admitted to the attention of the Customs Department, and such a ruling would effectively delay any but British vessels carrying freight from a Canadian port.

A Sign of Prosperity.

Reums have been up showing the boom in the land sales for the last quarter of the year 1897, and it will be of general interest to learn that the figure is $20,000 in excess of the previous record in the last five years, and $3,000 in excess of the sales in 1896. The sales were $101,700 last year, in 1896 $71,700; in 1895, $69,585; in 1894, $70,333, and in 1893 $8,581. This shows a large percentage of the new land purchased from the Government was employed to extend the bounds of the city of Reum. The reason why we are in itself a most happy condition of affairs, as it bears testimony to the general prosperity of the farming classes, who are increasing their acreage.

Tenders for Yukon Lands.

This was the last day for receiving tenders at the Interior Department for the privilege of holding lands within the limits of the Yukon district.

Although the Government gave very short notice, quite a large number of tenders have been received, approaching the neighborhood of 100.

Salvation Army Preached.

According to information which has reached the Fisheries Department, the catch of salmon trout in Lake Ontario during the past year has been better than for many years. Fish ranging up to 20 pounds in weight have been caught. On the other hand the expenses of the fishing fishery is, however, said to be decreasing. The catch of white fish has been good, although somewhat irregular in its character.

The Pilot Commission.

Judge Lavergne, Major Gordean and Dr. Wakeham, the St. Lawrence Pilots Commissioners, have taken up their posts in the neighbourhood of Montreal, and will go to Quebec next week to take the depositions of the pilots there. They will then return to Montreal to examine the shipping men.

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE.

The Results of the Annual Elections—Points of Interest.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—The annual meeting and elections of the Board of Trade were held yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members.

Mr. D. W. Alexander presented the treasurer's statement. The total income for 1897 was $80,100, which was less than for the previous year. The fees were $1,835 less, showing a loss of 132 members, and the rentals were $1,000 less. On the other hand the expenses had been reduced $100.

Mr. W. H. Hamilton read the report of the Industrial Association. The last exhibition was highly successful. The annual report of the association, soon to be presented, would show a surplus of $100,000.

President Edward Gurney, in presenting his annual report, gave a full and detailed review of the year's proceedings, in the course of which he advocated closer business relations with Britain and the establishment of a Canadian Commercial Agency, which should be non-political, in the interests of Canada.

After thanks to Mr. Gurney, Mr. Elias Rogers delivered an admirable address. He advocated a policy of "back to the land."

The elections resulted as follows: President, Elias Rogers; vice-president, A. E. Kempt; and vice-president, M. C. Ellis; treasurer, A. E. Ames.

Published in the Klondike.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—The relatives of Cassius and Anthony Chitwick of Florida, this State, have received word that the two men have perished in the Klondike region. The two left home for the gold fields last August. At present they were staying in Williamsburg of Pittsburg, Pa., and Metville Seville of Syracuse, N.Y. The last letter they wrote home stated that they were within thirty miles of the Stewart River. Relatives have received a letter from returning miners who have reached Seattle, stating that the whole party perished in a snow storm.

Supplies Cheaper in Canada.

Victoria, Jan. 26.—One hundred thousand dollars worth of supplies were given to Victoria merchants yesterday by the Alaska Commercial Company of San Francisco for supplies of every description for their various posts in the northern gold fields.

Shipping companies and miners now realize it is cheaper to purchase their supplies in Canada.

To Estate at Government House.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—Lieut.-Governor Mowat will take up his residence in Government House to-day. The renovations that have been going on since Sir George Kirkpatrick moved out are nearly so. Sheriff Mowat and family will reside with Sir Oliver until spring when they will return to their present home in York County.

Additions to Nova Scotia Cabinet.

Toronto, Jan. 26.—W. T. Pipes of Antigonish, a member of the Nova Scotia Legislature Council yesterday, and sworn in as member of the Local Government.

David McPherson, M.P.P. for Halifax, was also sworn in as member of the government.

GERMANY AND CHINA:
The Minister of Foreign Affairs Makes a Statement in the Reichstag.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—Addressing the members of the Budget Committee in the Reichstag yesterday, the Minister of Foreign Affairs referred to China. He said the negotiations now concluded had resulted first, in the Governor of Shan Tung being removed and forever debarred from holding high office in the Chinese service. Sixty officials may have also been removed and punished, and proceedings had been instituted for the punishment of the actual perpetrators of the crime, second, that the ministerial pay should meet for the maintenance of the mission; third, as atom proof for the death of the missionaries, three churches were to be erected, each provided with an Imperial tablet showing the name of the Emperor and the Chinese Emperor—also of Tsui-Ning, an other at Tsao-Chou-Fu, and a third at the place where the numbers were committed. China agreed to pay $60,000 for the maintenance and fees of the three. Another tool is assigned for buildings seven secure residences for the Catholic prefecture of Tsao-Chou Fu. Fourth, a special Imperial edict is issued for the protection of the German missions.

"China," Baron von Buol law, has complied with all demands.

Bishop Anzer regards the Imperial protection of the missions as extremely advantageous.

The privilege is rarely accorded, and will considerably heighten the prestige of the Catholic missionaries in the eyes of the Chinese.

The German Government believes it has done all that is necessary for the prevention of future massacres.

However, however are the permanent presence, under the treaty, of German man-of-war and a garrison at Kiao-Chou, by which it is hoped the authorities and population of China will not again forget no wrong done to German subjects.

A young horse is naturally full in the face. Sunken eyes are often approaching.

The eye is seized by the insect hypodermic needle just above the orbit—the eye and blowing it up with air.

In a case of stammer or influenza the discharge is temporarily stopped by glueing one nostril with a sponge.

The tooth is cauterized up to which a tree is cauterized by these "gyppes" in the case of a horse blind in one eye or where a cataract lessens his vision. The dealer, without any compunction whatever, punctures the eye, which runs out, and the nerve is cut off by a surgical operation.

The relief is but temporary, and the suffering of the horse is supposed to be extreme painful.

If the dealer finds himself burdened with a lame horse whose condition suggests no immediate change for the better he severs the nerve that supplies the foot, an operation which is called a "neurotomy."

When a horse has a quarter-crack, it is quickly filled with gutta percha or putty and painted to match the hoof.

The way to make a "high-stepper" is to ride him with a whip and a spur, and a pentape and cowitch, which burns like fire and makes the horse prance with pain.

Chloral hydrate and opium and the different narcotics are administered to tricky horses, absorbent cotton is plugged in the ears of shy ones, and "wedging" is resorted to in the case of colts. A wire is wound around the middle of the corresponding foot, causing both legs to go lame alike, which only gives the horse a different motion—Montreal Daily Star.

There was further uproar in the House when one of the questioners declared he was responsible for the presence of the troops in the Chamber, adding as a warning to the Socialists, that he would always be ready to call them to account.

M. Vandervelde, Socialist, denounced President Bismarck for calling him a "fighting man," whereupon the President suspended the sitting amid great disorder.

When business resumed, the President made a speech justifying the action taken against the Socialists, and M. Vandervelde again rose and uttered a violent tirade against the questioners, and asked who had ordered the Socialists to be threshed.

Mr. D. W. Alexander presented the treasurer's statement. The total income for 1897 was $80,100, which was less than for the previous year. The fees were $1,835 less, showing a loss of 132 members, and the rentals were $1,000 less. On the other hand the expenses had been reduced $100.

Mr. W. H. Hamilton read the report of the Industrial Association. The last exhibition was highly successful.

The annual report of the association, soon to be presented, would show a surplus of $100,000.

CANCER CURED

— AND —

LIFE SAVED

By the Persistent Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it!" —Mrs. S. A. Fields, Bloomfield, Ia.

Meant Business.

Deep gloom and recklessness struggled for supremacy on the expressive countenance of the young man. He fiercely roared that he must smother his tea his sister pressed upon him.

"It's all up," he announced. "I saw her with that blasted fool Peters again today."

"Really, that amounts to nothing, my dear boy," said his sister sympathetically. "A girl may be seen with a dozen men without being engaged to them."

"They're engaged all right enough," snarled the unhappy swain. "Why, they were shopping together!"

The mother, perceiving the emerging young woman, "No mother! Don't you give her up if you really like her, I'm sure I don't see why you should, for ever!"

"Marion kindly refrained from discussing her!"

"All right, I will. But I only going to say that you'll be a foolish boy if you give her up just because you happened to see her with 'that fool Peters' in a shop!"

"They're engaged. I could see that," persisted the unhappy one.

"How could that be? Was it a jeweler's?"

"No! It was much worse."

"It was a stove store, and they were pricing garments. Now do you believe?"

And the skeptical sister announced her entire conversion to the engagement theory. —New York Journal.

Spoonful and Mouthful.

Heaven forfend that with rash hand I should rip open the chronic controversy as to the proper plural of spoonful or spoonfull. At present, and for the present, I shall let it stand at spoonful, and, I would say, nonplusular; that I can chide. It is very sure to wake up ere long and vex us. Yet I cannot refrain from citing one word of that class which, strange to say, has hitherto been overlooked: the spoonful and the spoonfull ought to be decisive of it. That word is mouthful. Now if the advocates of spoonful, etc., have any pretensions to consistency, they must doubtless maintain that the proper plural of this word is mouthful. What a world we would only save if any person should be disposed to take a few mouthfuls of milk or tea he would be tempted to ask like Sydney Smith when enjoined by his doctor to take an occasional walk on an empty stomach—such notes and queries.

The most trustworthy signs of freshness in fish of every kind are the brightness and prominence of the eyes and the redness and rigidity of the gills. Fish which is unseasonable will display a want of firmness, with a bluish purple appearance when it should be white.

A LIGHT WOMAN.

She had as many loves as she had follies, but none of her light loves sang her praises, And but few of the sum of sea shells Here is the limit of the hollow shore, Folly and pride are covered mostly o'er, we have told the sea hundreds of beauty over.

All that was sweet and all we love unused, Buried with her now since there's no love But scatters on her bed.

Here is the end of laughter, and here without Sorrow and mirth, Here dancing feet fall still.

Here is the sun pink flowers fade together.

Even at the wind's wild will.

Al, full how quickly all our joy is gone!

She was gay, too. See, and lights and foam,

INTERESTED IN MINERALS.

Maine's Woman Geologist and Her Fortunate Find of Sodalite.

Mrs. A. C. Merchant was a Maine girl of ordinary school education, but with a passion for study far in advance of her station. One day she found a very beautiful specimen of sodalite in a rock near Litchfield, and finding that the ledge was composed of it sent it to a neighboring college. The curator wrote back that it was a very rare mineral and asked her for it.

In a few years the mineralogists of the Johns Hopkins university, the Peabody museum at Yale, Harvard's geologist, the Smithsonian, and even great men in the old country, were writing her for specimens. She sent off her goods by the box and letter, and return was distinguished by a large sum of money paid her gallery was painted on board.

It is told that a great professor who was visiting Poland Springs and who had driven over to see the collection of minerals before her, asked her what she came to have a mineral crystal which lay upon her doorstep.

"Professor L. of Harvard sent it to me," she said.

"Why do you know Professor L?" He's a great scientist. He has promised me a place of sodalite, and I am to get it in a few months now. It's rare mineral indeed. Do you happen to be interested in minerals?"

The kindly face in the door fairly lit up when she told him that she knew him. "I know you are a good scholar, sir, though I wish I did." But to the sodalite, I can give you a piece of it. Just wait till I get my sunbonnet and I'll show you a piece as big as this house."

The professor smiled understandingly but waited and walked with her down the path leading to the mineral room. There he nearly lost his head. He jumped about, picked up pieces and fairly kissed them in his delight. He came back several times and finally landed a sugar barrel with special care upon its top to hold the specimen.

The last work upon which Raphael was employed was a painting of "The Transfiguration." He died of fever and was buried in the Pantheon—English Encyclopedia.

SCENE IN THE CHAMBER AFTER THE FIGHT.

The President Makes a Statement—Complaints that the Troops Were Called In—Important Statement by Germany—Mr. Gladstone's Illness.

Paris, Jan. 25.—The Chamber of Deputies was thronged yesterday. When the session opened at 1 p.m. Mr. Beau reported protest against the troops which had acceded the Chamber on Saturday, saying it recalled the coup d'etat of Dec. 1861, and of November, 1799, (Prolonged murmur.) The deputy further complained that the troops had been called in Saturday the President of the Chamber, M. Brisson, explained that those who were charged to clear the tribune had been summoned and thought it their duty to call out the Guard. M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, requested permission to continue the discussion of Saturday. He criticized the Government's "Incomplete prosecution" of Emile Zola, and said that were it not for the intervention of the state of affairs M. Jaures protested against the alleged illegality and secrecy of the Dreyfus proceedings, and reproached the Government with pusillanimity. He also claimed that the Guard, which the republic had been controlled by clericalists, and accused the majority of desiring the "redelivery of the Republic to the hands of the monarchy and clericalists." Continuing M. Jaures exclaimed: "But the Socialists are prepared to defend the republic."

The Premier, M. Meline, refused to reply, "because," he said, "the Government has no right to constitute itself a court of justice."

The House, by a vote of 375 to 133, expressed confidence in the Government.

It is agreed on all sides that the debate scene in the Chamber of Deputies was almost without precedent, except the recent disturbances in the Austrian Reichsrath. Curiously enough Count Baudin (deputy for Paris) witnessed it. He must have felt something like awe. After the Chamber was cleared 125 torn off neckties were picked up, together with many coats that had been torn by Deputy from each other's shoulders. M. Clovis Hugues, one of the Deputies for Paris, was seen to have a hand-damaged on his fingers, which were so mutilated that he is now in the hands of a surgeon. The scene of fighting around the tribune was unparalleled.
